

ABSTRACT

Transporting print material covered on the front side with toner for back side printing in which the toner is prefused on the front side of the print material by heating the toner over its glass transition temperature prior to 5 returning the print material for back side printing.